CONEXUS leaders to tackle AI and the future of leadership in latest meet

CONEXUS Mobile Alliance is gathering leaders of Asia's biggest mobile operators to collaborate on best practices and continuous learning in new spaces, including artificial intelligence. A highlight of the gathering was StarHub's Speaker Series event at St.

Regis Singapore. Mike Walsh, CEO of global consultancy firm Tomorrow which focuses on designing companies for the 21st century, delivered the keynote address and discuss on how artificial intelligence will transform everyday life and change the future of work and leadership.

Walsh had also been joined by StarHub's enterprise business chief Dr Chong Yoke Sin, Sanjeev Biswas and Ivan Phoon in a panel discussion, "Reinventing Business for the AI Generation". The Conexus Board participated in the event hosted by StarHub focusing on AI adoption as AI is among advanced technologies that will empower subscribers to create more value and establish diversity of new ecosystem. Conexus members also aim to be enablers of new services on top of digital infrastructure including AI, blockchain, and big data, among others. Those services will maximize the benefit of existing mobile networks and pave the way to fully utilizing upcoming 5G technology.
